

PHILADELPHIA | April 3, 2009

Cats in Space

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Gallery Opens

What's cooler than cosmic fighting felines?

Not much, save artist Alex Paik's new Tiger Strikes Asteroid gallery, of course.

Paik and five friends have taken the cooperative spirit to heart, providing a studio for the creative-minded to collaborate on projects and curate shows.

The result is a Chinatown space where the individual is king. It's located at The Fourth Floor, new studios in the arts building that houses Vox Populi, Copy, and Khmer art galleries.

Tiger is striking while the iron's hot with Spring Break 2009, Phillip Adams's large-scale wall drawing — a fusion of political satire and mural techniques — to kick off tonight's opening.

Take that, Thundercats.

Tiger Strikes Asteroid, 319a North Eleventh Street, fourth floor (tigerstrikesasteroid.com). Spring Break 2009, tonight, 6-10 p.m.

SPONSORED LINK

Your beau's snoring isn't exactly the heavy breathing you had in mind. Shush his schnoz with Brez, the new breathing aid that stops snoring by expanding nasal passages to reduce vibrations. It's comfortable; drug free; easy to use; and, best of all, clinically proven to work. Sweet dreams.

© 2009 Daily Candy, Inc. All rights reserved.

This copy is for your personal, non-commercial use only. To order presentation-ready copies for distribution, contact us at www.dailycandy.com/contact.jsp.

Daily Candy is strictly editorial. There is no pay for play.

Artwork by Sujean.

